"Belles" aren't the only ones supporting "Tom Bonner" at the University of Omaha. An organization having a membership of 100 has been formed since the "Draft Bonner" campaign began five weeks ago. After the Nov. 8 elections the group will continue as a non-partisan movement.

Tonight the Bonner Committee will sponsor a rally in the Student Center at 6 p. m. At 8 p. m. there will be another rally and dance at the German-American Club. The event is open to the public.

The keywords of the Bonner campaign at present are: "Poll Workers Wanted!" Any student or faculty member interested in working on the Tom Bonner Committee on election day may leave his name and telephone number in Roger Dunbier's box in the Post Office.

Mayor Airs City Opinions

Problems of a university in an urban locale were discussed at a national conference attended by President Milo Bail last week. Meeting on the campus of the University of Wisconsin, Milwaukee branch, educators from across the nation heard Mayor Ben West of Nashville, Tenn., outline his views.

"The urban university could furnish leadership in ideas, hold up to the view of the community the mirror of current affairs in which community assets, as well as community shortcomings, would be reflected," he said in his keynote address.

Noting that state universities have changed "the whole face of the land and the practice of agriculture," Mayor West asked, "why can't institutions located in urban areas now help solve urban problems?"

New Graduate Plan Named by OU, Ind.

A new co-operative graduate plan offered in conjunction with Indiana University has been announced by the graduate division.

The plan will enable students to complete one year of work beyond the master's degree level at OU, not to exceed 60 hours, and then transfer to Indiana University to complete an additional year and receive a PHD.

An examination for admission to the program will be given at OU, and a qualifying examination for the degree will be given at Indiana.

Anyone interested in the plan should contact the graduate division.

Several similar plans have been proposed to OU by other schools, and these are presently being considered.

McMillan Speaks

John McMillan, associate professor of physics and acting chairman of the department, spoke yesterday to the Nishna Valley Community Schools at Emerson, Iowa.

His talk, before high school science students, was part of a visiting-scientist program being sponsored by the State University of Iowa.

Keep Eye on Donut Banks Tells Convo

"As you ramble through life, brother, toward a goal, keep your eye on the doughnut and not on the hole."

This is one of the many philosophies Dr. Murray Banks, psychiatrist and comedian, expressed last Friday in his campus talk, "What to Do Until the Psychiatrist Comes."

Mental hygiene was the underlying theme of the talk. Dr. Banks said, "Suicides, neuroses, and psychoses could be avoided by facing frustrations instead of trying to run away from them."

He added, "No one is born insane, people who are insane want to be insane."

"If the basic human wants of wanting to live, to feel important or having the love of someone else aren't fulfilled, people make adjustments by turning to liquor or committing emotional and physical suicide," he said.

"All this could be avoided by proper mental hygiene education. Schools should teach mental hygiene to prevent ulcers and to get better discounts."

Hospital Releases Dr. Francis Hurst

Dr. Francis Hurst, psychology professor at OU who was seriously wounded in a hunting accident two weeks ago, was released from Clarkson Hospital earlier this week.

Dr. Hurst was hospitalized on Oct. 22 after receiving a charge of buckshot in his face while pheasant hunting with friends.

Nancy Frey, student nurse who was also injured in a hunting accident, still remains in serious condition.

Hospital authorities said her condition has improved somewhat and she is "holding her own."

Official Notices

Seniors who failed to register for Senior Executive Day may register today only in Room 248 in the Administration Building.

Student directories will be delivered to OU today, and will be distributed in the Student Center Monday and Tuesday, 8:30-2:30. Students can pick up their directories at the table next to the Bookstore, by showing their activity cards.

Merriam Says Lumumba Is Rabble-Rouser

By Bill Vogt

Dr. Allan Merriam, speaking Wednesday at the fourth Institute of World Affairs on "The Congo in Transition," said that the only thing that will save the Congo is a strong federal-type government, which would draw the country together.

Dr. Merriam said the Belgians themselves were responsible for the present situation in the Congo because of their tight controls exercised under a policy of paternalism.

He added that the Congolese were not trained to assume leadership, and that they did not know what to expect of independence, or what form of government to adopt.

He said that tremendous pressures were put on Belgium by the U.S. and the U.N. to grant independence. Since 5 per cent of Belgium's wealth was tied up in the Congo, independence was granted in hopes of establishing friendly relations with the former colony.

Commenting on Patrice Lumumba, Dr. Merriam said the man is a born rabble-rouser, but that his ability to play East against West within ten days after coming to power "was not the action of a dumbbell."

"The Congo is worth fighting for," Merriam said, "and Communism has no better foot-hold there than does Democracy."

He added that the Congo, rich in natural resources, is of importance strategically, because "to control the Congo would be to control all Central Africa."

Col. James H. S. Rasmussen will discuss "Weapons and Defense" at the fifth World Affairs lecture Wednesday, Nov. 9 at 8:15 p.m.

The main text of his talk will deal with missiles and missile base development.

Since graduating from West Point in 1945, Col. Rasmussen has been connected with the Armed Forces.

At present he is commander of the 392nd Combat Support Group stationed at Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

Col. Rasmussen was recently Chief of Staff on the 1st Missile Division. He was also a Deputy Director of Personnel and Adjutant at Offutt Air Force Base near Omaha.

Bail Mum on Slated Access Road Aimed Across Campus

Whether or not the University of Omaha will accept the proposed "access road to ease traffic problems" is a matter for "very careful thought," President Milo Bail said this week.

He declined to say when a decision would be reached.

The project, as suggested by Public Works Director George J. Fisher, Traffic Engineer Burt Whedon and Planning Director Alden F. Aust calls for a concrete road running the entire east-west frontage of the campus.

It would be located "far enough south to allow another 12-foot eastbound lane to be added to Dodge Street later."

This would require a "35 to 37 foot slice of the campus," Dr. Bail pointed out.

According to its proponents the 20-foot slab would ease the traffic tie-up created by students turning into the University.

They make no provision, however for eliminating the back-up of drivers making left turns from the westbound lane.

It would be shifted to the Happy Hollow Boulevard intersection as the plans call for entrances only at either end of the roadway.

Cost estimates set the price at 75 thousand dollars with the University being asked to pay two-thirds of it.

Planners break the financing into three sections with the city and OU sharing the 30-thousand dollar east section, the University paying for all the 35-thousand dollar center stretch and the city footing the bill for the 10-thousand dollar west portion.

In describing future plans for the area the planners pointed out that "the project will not eliminate the necessity for widening Dodge Street."

Dr. Bail agreed that there is a "mounting traffic problem and that a study must be made."

But he emphasized that "this is only one of many possible solutions."

He did not display any enthusiasm for the service road idea.

"We will comment later," he said.

Zetas Placed On Probation

Zeta Tau Alpha social sorority has been placed on social probation for violating rush rules concerning the Cutest Fan contest Oct. 24-26.

The probation period for the remainder of the first semester was announced at a special meeting of the Panhellenic Council Wednesday.

Chi Omega sorority filed a formal protest Oct. 27 charging that ZTA had solicited funds for the contest from a high school girl at a local high school Oct. 25.

Although Zetas admitted having a pledge with a UCS jar at the school talking to a co-ed that day, they denied any knowledge of solicitation of funds in the name of the sorority.

According to Panhellenic officials, any OU sorority member having contact with a high school girl in the name of her sorority is violating Article I No. 4 of Panhellenic rush rules.

Panhellenic Council voted three to one to place the sorority on social probation. The sorority cannot have nor participate in any social functions as a sorority. However, this does not limit the activities of individuals outside of Greek affairs.

Vote at University

Omaha University's Fieldhouse and two rooms in the Administration building are slated to be polling stations during the upcoming Nov. 8 election.

According to Omaha's Election Commissioner Sam Cooper, districts 19 and 26 from wards 10 and nine, respectively, will use the facilities. Those areas combined have about 1,000 registered voters.

Newman Members See Films Sunday

Films of a Hawaiian tour and aircraft landings will be featured at the Newman Club meeting Sunday in the Student Center.

Pat Hart, a graduate student at Omaha University, will narrate the films.

The Newman Club business meeting will begin at 5 p.m. followed by the films.

Orphans, One Goat In Next OU Cinema

Seven wandering orphans and one goat searching the Swedish countryside for a home is the theme for the next "University Cinema" film.

"The Children" explores the Swedish landscape and weather and is part of a series of movies being shown for the College of Adult Education.

It will be shown Monday, Nov. 7 at the Conference Center Auditorium and will begin at 8 p.m.

'Why Should OU Pay for a City Street?' Asks President

By Lowell Baumer

Discussion at the Student Council meeting Tuesday centered on the proposed traffic access road.

"One thing is certain," said President Milo Bail, who attended this week's meeting. "Every single day more automobiles find their way onto Dodge Street."

Dr. Bail, who learned of the situation Monday, has proposed in the past that Dodge Street be widened to five lanes and a left turn lane be incorporated.

This access road is part of an over-all Dodge Street traffic flow study of 52nd street to 72nd street or beyond, the president said.

The city objects to helping OU alone, he said. The president seemed to think that this particular plan, as it now stands, would offer no solution for OU's problem and would be a waste of funds. "Why should we spend money from the University to build a city street?"

Bail referred to the regents' policy of using tax and tuition funds of the University only for direct, academic benefit to the students.

He asked members of the council where the drivers come from in entering OU from Dodge and what the problems were to them.

Visual Red Threat Earns Re-run Date

Due to "enthusiastic and ample crowds" at three showings of "Communism in College," the movie will be re-run, according to Assistant Dean of Student Personnel Curt Seimers.

After the mid-term exams, the film will be shown to all interested students and faculty.

"Shock was evident on the faces of many students when evidence of creeping communism on campuses was so graphically shown by the movie," commented Dean Seimers.

Dean Seimers urged all who can spare the time to see the movie.

"All college students should be made aware of the fact that communism can come here."

Capsule Art Show In Epply Lounge

Would-be art critics can see a capsule art exhibit in the Gene Epply Conference Center Lounge.

Featured in the exhibit, which will be changed occasionally during the semester, are original works, most of them by members of the OU art department.

Currently being displayed in the exhibit are an aerial view of the campus by Jane Andersen, instructor; an abstract by Peter Hill, instructor; "Road" and "Harbor" by John Page; and "Corn Dance" by Gellert Tadous.

"Corn Dance," while not by a member of the art department, is an original colored wood block print.

Homecoming On Friday?

A motion was passed to suggest changing next year's homecoming game from Saturday to Friday afternoon and make homecoming a one-day holiday. The consensus was that football players then would be able to attend the dance and the whole celebration would be more eventful.

Visitation Is Discussed

A tentative high school visitation program was set up and chairmen were appointed for each high school. A suggestion was called to investigate the feasibility of including Creighton Prep. should they approve, in the program. Curt Siemers, assistant dean of student personnel, suggested the council listen to speeches before they go out this year in order to iron out difficulties.

Debate Guests Will Have Tea

The Council made plans to officially welcome the debaters from 21 neighboring colleges and universities who are on campus today and Saturday for OU's kick-off tournament. A tea in the Student Center is planned for them today at 3 p. m.

CAE, Girl Scouts Offer 2 Programs

Two programs are being offered tomorrow by the College of Adult Education in conjunction with the Omaha Girl Scouts.

"The U of Tomorrow" is a two-day program for senior Girl Scouts, and includes a greeting by President Milo Bail, a tour of the campus conducted by the Student Council, and a talk, "Exploring Your Careers," by Dr. Gale Oleson, director, academic testing and counselling.

Also on the program are a series of group discussions on family life, recreation, and arts and sciences.

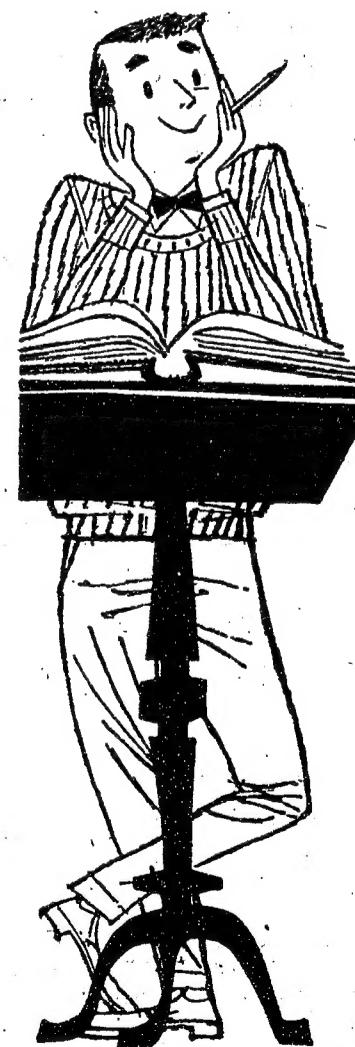

The concluding event for Saturday will be a Hi-Fi Dance in the Student Center.

Sunday, church services will be held at St. Margaret Mary's and Dundee Presbyterian. A business meeting will follow.

"Adolescent Workshop," to be held tomorrow concurrently with the Girl Scout program, is designed for adults. It features talks on facilities available for adolescent recreation and on characteristics and needs of adolescents.

The Student Health Service is offering hearing tests to any OU student interested. The test is given by an Audiometer, a machine which measures degree of hearing.

Four States to Be In Debate at OU

Twenty-one colleges from a four-state area will be represented at a debate tournament on the OU campus Nov. 4. One hundred students, fifteen of them from OU, will participate in the two-day affair.

The tournament will include three debates, discussions, and extemporaneous speeches. A coffee and a dinner will be held for the students.

The point of controversy in the tournament will be whether a compulsory health insurance program should be adopted in the United States.

Three awards will be presented, two traveling trophies for experienced debaters, and a trophy for beginning debaters, which the winning school may keep.

Sponsoring the tournament are Dr. Aldrich Paul, head of the speech department, and Curtis Siemers, assistant dean in charge of Student Personnel.

provided toward tuition, laboratory fees and travel.

Applications for the Danforth fellowships may be made by college senior men and recent graduates preparing for a career of college teaching. They must be planning to enter their first year of graduate study in Sept. 1961.

Applications are welcome from the areas of natural and biological sciences, social sciences, humanities and all fields of specialization to be found in the undergraduate college.

The maximum annual grant for single Fellows is $1500 plus tuition and fees; for married Fellows, $2000 plus tuition and fees with an additional $500 for each child. Students with or without financial need are invited to apply. A Danforth Fellow may carry other scholarship appointments concurrently with his fellowship.

Qualifications for applicants as listed in an announcement from the Foundation are "men of outstanding academic ability, personality congenial to the classroom, integrity and character, including serious inquiry within the Christian tradition."

Honorary to Give $1,000 Fellowships

During the 1961-62 academic year the National Council of Alpha Lambda Delta will award the Alice Crocker Lloyd Fellowship and the Adele Hagner Stamp Fellowship for graduate study.

The amount of each fellowship is $1,000. Either may be used in any college or university where there is a chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta.

Any member of Alpha Lambda Delta who graduated in '58, '59, or '60 and maintained a scholastic average of 3.5 throughout her college career is eligible. Graduating seniors may apply if they have maintained this average to the end of the first semester of this year.

Applicants will be judged on scholastic record, recommendations submitted, the soundness of the applicant's project and purpose, and to some extent, on need.

Application blank and information may be obtained from Dean Elizabeth Hill. The application must be completed by the applicant herself and submitted to the fellowship chairman by Feb. 15, 1961.

Barbara Fleck, an OU graduate of '59, received the Alice Crocker Lloyd Fellowship this past year.

Road Planners Need More Logical Ideas

By Ken Zimmerman
(See Story Page 1)

Whoever dreamed up that so-called "access road to serve the University of Omaha" can't be serious.

What good would it do?

If the students are going to enter via Dodge Street they've got to turn someplace. That spot is going to be a bottleneck no matter where you put it.

Why Move the Jam

Granted there is a problem but I fail to see where this idea can justify the loss to the University.

If cars now back up at Sixteenth Street they are just as likely to back up at Happy Hollow Boulevard. As far as I can see, they don't back up at all to the West.

What, then, is the gain?

Consider now the loss.

Would Cut 40 Feet

According to its advocates, the road "would be 20 feet wide and located far enough south to allow an additional 12-foot lane to be added to Dodge Street."

Including curbs and a lane divider, the project would lop off nearly 40 feet from the entire University frontage.

In addition OU would be assessed 50 thousand dollars of the 75 thousand dollar price tag.

Dr. Bail and the University have been asked to study this proposal and express an opinion.

Elmwood Park Ravine

So far as I'm concerned, there are other solutions to the traffic problem that deserve at least equal consideration.

For instance, why not revive the sleeping dog issue of the Elmwood Park ravine? It could be filled in, converted to parking and an entrance opened onto Happy Hollow Boulevard.

If that ditch was saved last year because of the cries of outraged citizen who claimed it was a thing of beauty, how do those road planners think they can carve up the less-debatable beauty of the OU campus?

Secondly, the access road advocates admit that a third west-bound lane is to be built on the north side of Dodge Street. Why not go ahead and build and let the center lane handle the left turn traffic?

Signal Moved for Walkers

Also, say these planners, the project would help pedestrians, both from OU and from the grade school across the street.

This is mentioned in connection with moving the traffic light to Sixty-second Street.

Seems to me that adding another thoroughfare only increases their dangers. Why not a pedestrian underpass such as those near Tech, Central and Benson High Schools?

To me the problem is not one of shifting the bulk of the traffic east a couple blocks but rather one of dispersing them through other entrances.

Bail Must Decide

That's a question of persuasion, not so much construction.

There's already an access road to the south entrances—and the Elmwood Park ravine. It's called Farnam Street.

So long as students insist on driving out Dodge Street every morning there's going to be a left turn snarl. Building an access road a hundred feet wide would not change that. They've got to buck the eastbound traffic and get across.

Much simpler would be to ban the left turns.

When Dr. Bail makes his study he's got to consider that. He's got to bear in mind the proportionate gain and loss of this folly.

NI-HARD abrasion-resisting cast iron is widely recognized for its outstanding resistance to abrasion and finds use in many industries such as the mining, cement, power and metal working.

Bonner: We Need to Revive Norris' Type' of Leadership

Tom Bonner ... write-in candidate.

A desire to revive George Norris-type leadership for Nebraska has led Dr. Thomas Bonner to openly accept the draft Bonner campaign begun by Omahans.

"Nebraska needs a Congressman who stands for the renown ideals of the late Senator Norris: progressivism, social legislation, independence, rugged individualism and courage," Dr. Bonner explained.

The OU social science department head believes that "pigmy the electorate to decide elections politicians have skillfully induced on a specific issue instead of considering the abilities of a man."

According to him, voters should question the intellectual ability, knowledge span and openmindedness of a candidate.

"His ability to represent his people and to get along with others should also be a determining factor," Dr. Bonner said.

The Bonner write-in campaign exemplifies Bonner's theory that the office should seek the man, rather than the man seek the office.

"Our present system of electing candidates puts stress on individual political ambitions," he said. "I believe this method gives the office seeker an urge to power that he shouldn't have."

Dr. Bonner was sought out five weeks ago by a large number of voters who couldn't get enthused about either of the official candidates for second district Representative. He watched the progress for two weeks, but didn't endorse the campaign publicly until he realized people were getting excited about it, including the two candidates.

His first public statement was in response to what the candidates said at a meeting in West Omaha.

The write-in candidate this weekend will again challenge candidates Glenn Cunningham and Joseph Benesch to a debate. According to Dr. Bonner they have declined previously "because they don't want to call any more attention to the movement since they have much to lose by it and nothing to gain. I also believe they're afraid to debate," he added.

Dr. Bonner contends that incumbent Cunningham doesn't take a definite stand on issues many times and doesn't completely represent his electorate.

"Although he definitely represents the upperclass conservatives, at times he has backed labor," he pointed out. "Yet, he hasn't championed the broad social program of the working man."

Dr. Bonner contends that Nebraska suffers from the disproportionate strength of the two parties. "When one party predominates as in Nebraska, that

Waokiya Maintains Respect Thru Scholarship, Purpose

Scholarship and strict adherence to its purposes help Waokiya, senior women's honorary, maintain high respect on OU's campus.

The purposes stated in the preamble to the Waokiya constitution are:

1. To promote college loyalty.
2. To advance spirit of service and fellowship among University women.
3. To promote and maintain high scholarship.
4. To recognize and encourage leadership.
5. And to stimulate and develop a finer type of woman.

Requirements to becoming a member of Waokiya are: being in the upper third of her class (which is usually a 3 point average), taking 12 hours or more each semester, and participating in such activities as journalism, athletics or drama.

Waokiya is an Indian name meaning one who commands.

Two major projects for the year are underway. Waokiya is trying to petition Mortar Board, national women's scholastic and leadership honorary to come on the OU campus.

In February a coffee hour will be held for prospective Waokiya members from the freshman and sophomore classes. At the hour, accumulation of points for Waokiya membership will be explained to the group.

Other projects for the year are as follows. Waokiya members, of which there are 15, ushered at the World Affairs Institute for the past six weeks. They will sponsor the third annual leadership conference in April and the May Day party for faculty children.

In the past they sponsored a coffee hour for Letitia Baldridge, social secretary to Claire Booth Luce.

Officers are Judy Lane, president; Karen Jensen, vice president; Lonnie Hansen, secretary and Marilyn Brunell, historian.

Members may be recognized by their two crossed gold swords or by their gray skirts and sweatshirts and navy blue blazers.

Tapping for members takes place in December and April.

President Judy Lane said that members think of the school first and try to follow their purposes in every project undertaken.

Sponsors are Dean Elizabeth Hill, Miss Ellen Lord, Miss Margaret Killian and Mrs. Marion Marsh Brown.

Waokiya's Hear Two Speakers at Meeting

Waokiya, senior women's honorary, had two speakers from the American Association of University Women at their Oct. 20 meeting.

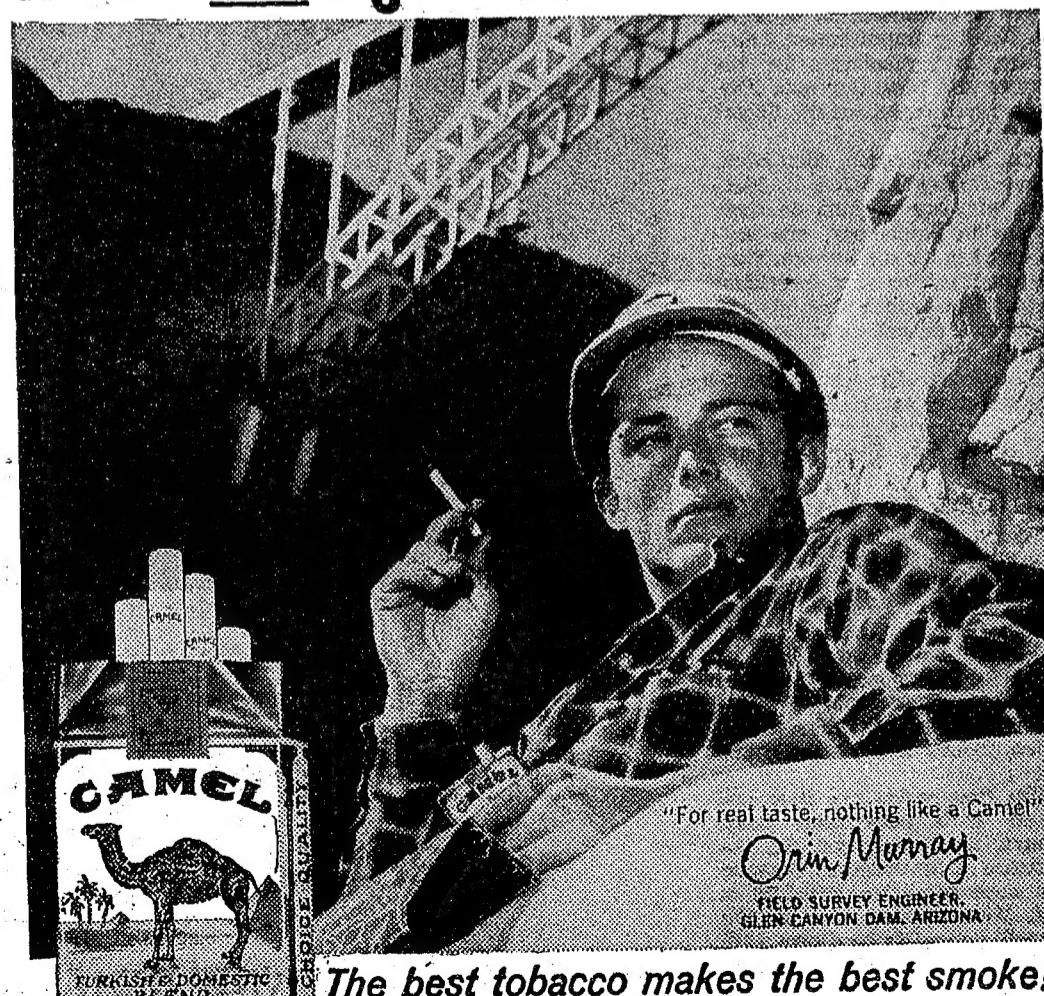

Mrs. Virginia Childs, president of the national organization, and Mrs. Louise Bauman, membership chairman, spoke to the group.

The association's purpose is to further the cultural aims of women college graduates and raise the standards of women's education.

Nixon Leading In Final Tally

Fifty per cent of the 413 votes cast in the Gateway presidential poll were for Vice-President Nixon. Nixon received 219 votes to Senator Kennedy's 179 votes.

Seven per cent of the ballots were write-ins. Paul Beck, political science instructor, received seven of the 15 write-in votes. Close behind him was Alfred E. Newman with five votes.

Tom Bonner, candidate for Congress, received two votes and one vote was cast for President Milo Bail.

A slip of paper dropped in the ballot box termed the poll ridiculous "because three-fourths of the voters are minors and they can't vote when it counts!"

The Gateway made no claims to the validity of the poll, merely wishing to test student opinion.

Study Service Handles Tests

The old and the new are combined in the Child Study Service.

The Service handles all individual testing for pupils in the Omaha Public Schools including pre-kindergarten. The scores from the various group tests given in the schools are sent here for statistical work.

In July 1937 the Service was started and housed in the old Men's Faculty Building until the University moved to its present site.

William H. Thompson, former Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Miss Frances Edwards operated the clinic until Dean Thompson's retirement last year. They are now operating a private testing clinic. The first assistants were Virginia Brown, now married to a Des Moines doctor, and Lois Hindman, the wife of Associate Professor of Physics, John G. McMillan.

The Service was first located on the third floor and was hard for parents and students to find. It now occupies several rooms where the cafeteria was formerly located. The facilities have been expanded to provide more adequate office and testing space.

The Service is set up in cooperation with the Omaha Public School System under Don Warner, Assistant Secretary of Schools in charge of special services. All cases must be approved and set up by Mr. Warner.

Dr. Frank H. Gorman, Dean of the College of Education, now directs the Service. Dr. Joseph G. Dunn, Associate Professor of Education is Assistant Director. Dr. Harry W. Johnson, Director of the Reading Improvement Laboratory, is psychologist for the Service and Mrs. Gertrude Nesvin is psychologist for the School Board.

Mrs. Ruth Empson, Alan Beck, Roger Dooley and Jon D. Hannum, who are working on their majors in psychology, are psychometrists for the Service. They are qualified to give individual mental tests which they give in the schools as well as at the University.

Mrs. Jolene George is executive secretary for the Service.

'Here to Eternity' Comes to Center

Tuesday, Nov. 15, is the date scheduled for the next Student Center movie, "From Here To Eternity."

Burt Lancaster, Deborah Kerr and Frank Sinatra (who took an Oscar for his supporting role in this movie) will display the talent which made the film a box office success around the country.

The film series has been received with enthusiasm from campus moviegoers and the acceptance of the viewers has made the once tentative schedule a fact. Nine more movies on the list will definitely be shown, said Assistant Dean of Student Personnel Curt Seimers.

The movie will be shown in rooms 312 A-B.

Well-Being of OU Students Concern of Health Service

By Carolyn Richmond

Student Health Service—ever heard of it? Maybe not by name, but most OU students come in contact with the service in one way or another.

The purpose of Student Health Service is to be of assistance to OU students pertaining to their physical and mental well-being. Dr. George M. McArdle, the school physician, is available 8 to 10 a. m. Monday through Friday in Room 250.

A full-time Registered Nurse, Eve Brecht, is on duty each day 8 a.m. to 8:45 p.m. R.N. Malvina Stephens works each evening, 6 to 10, and Saturday from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Student Health offers the following six services to students:

1—It gives complete physical examinations upon entrance to the University.

2—It recommends to physical education department and student counselors when activity is restricted and advises adaptive activity.

3—It renders first aid. Continued medical treatment is referred to the family physician.

4—It gives influenza and polio shots to all those who want them. Students may pay one dollar to the cashier and bring their receipt to Room 250.

5—It treats minor ailments of students.

6—It gives some health education. There are a number of pamphlets available on social diseases, cancer, T.B., and mental health. Student Health is also cooperating with several public health agencies in sponsoring programs consisting of films, speakers and open discussion.

Mrs. Brecht said, "The University does not intend to furnish a general medical service. The student can get this from his own family physician. It does employ competent help to protect the student from infections, to continue medical examinations, to show what forms of exercise or competition is safe for the individual student and to help the student on the formation of good health habits which will prevent future illnesses and disability."

Omaha University's Student Center is a busy place.

Mrs. Maurine Repleglo, information desk attendant, said that by 1 p.m. on an average day 80 students will check out pool balls for the snooker and eight-ball tables. Thirty sets of playing cards will be checked out in the same period, she said.

No White Space No Page Makeup

A meeting of the Gateway staff late Wednesday afternoon came to the conclusion that white space is an absolute necessity in newspaper makeup. Carol Sue Child, news editor, said that it was impossible to make up the newspaper without an adequate amount of white space.

Receptacles Collect Variety of Articles

The newly-acquired red and black waste receptacles recently put into use on the Omaha University campus have collected a variety of things.

Among the items observed were various selections of candy bar wrappers, gum tin foil, filter cigarette butts, which outnumbered the filterless type four to one, torn pieces of a photograph, and one slightly wrinkled Omaha World-Herald. The paper folded into the shape of a club had one broken end with the smeared body of a spider on it.

These brightly colored waste cans are placed around the University buildings for student use, a member of the custodial staff said. "Student cooperation will help keep Omaha University beautiful," he added.

Thoroughfare Eases Travel

Trans-campus transportation was simplified at OU this semester by the opening of the road between the Fieldhouse and the Library.

It has made it easier for students who want to park near the Library or Student Center, or who want to drop off books or friends at the Library and proceed on to Dodge. The opening of the road has eliminated the problem of having to take a roundabout route to these destinations.

However, it seems that OU students have been abusing that privilege, and it is a possibility that the road will be blocked off at certain times of the day. What is the reason?

Many students have not adhered to the 15-mile-and-hour speed restriction which is necessary since the road is also a busy pedestrian crossing.

If these drivers continue to exceed the speed limit, restrictions will undoubtedly be imposed. It will be unfair to those who follow the rules and appreciate the benefits of the campus thoroughfare.

Students Travel To Topeka, Kans.

Some 250 Omaha University students will travel to Topeka, Kan., this Friday for the University of Omaha's Migration Day.

The University Band, Indians, cheerleaders and OUampi have chartered two buses. The two marching groups will perform both before and at the half of the game.

Several other buses that are being chartered along with the numerous car loads of students should provide the Indian grididers with a strong cheering section.

The Wichita chapter of the OU Alumni are also making plans to attend Migration. There will be alums from Salina, Topeka, Wichita and a few surrounding towns.

Name Honor Grad To Alumni Board

A new member of the Alumni Board of Directors is Mrs. Joan Haven Post, a 1954 graduate of OU.

Mrs. Post will finish out the remaining year in the two-year term left by Miss Hazel Babcock who resigned because the post required too much of her time.

Graduating with a B.S. degree, Mrs. Post was on the Dean's honor roll, served on the Student Council, had a University honor scholarship, worked on the Tomahawk staff, and was Waokya president in her senior year.

Mrs. Post is the wife of Duane Post, also a 1954 graduate.

Eleven Indians Hit by Illness

Nine University of Omaha grididers, backfield coach Ken Fischer and trainer Jerry Hunger were suffering from the effects of a slight case of Ptomaine poisoning Monday.

The men became sick Sunday after the Saturday trip to St. Benedict's at Atchison, Kansas.

Players hit by the illness were Gary Sindlar, Max Jones, Jacque Routh, Darnell Mallory, Duane Salak, Mike Cochran, Jim Foster, Bob Jueckstock and Paul Blazevich.

Everyone was back on the practice field by Tuesday afternoon.

Sayers, Conway Lead Rushers

Sophomore Roger Sayers leads Omaha U rushers with an average of over six yards per carry.

He is followed by freshman Mike Conway, whose average is only one-tenth of a yard behind him.

Louie Miloni is the yardage leader with a total of 369 yards. His average per carry is five yards.

OU Team Watches NU

Omaha University grididers will receive an unexpected trip this weekend. The Indian squad, along with coaches and staff, will swing through Lawrence, Kans., and see the University of Nebraska and Kansas game.

The Indians had originally planned on returning to Omaha Saturday morning.

Cross Country Team Wins One, Loses Two as Dunning Finishes High in All Meets

The Omaha U. cross country team has been busy in the last few weeks. They won one meet and lost two.

On October 18, the harriers faced Doane at the Elmwood park course. The Indians lost to the Doane team by the score of 20-35.

The winner was Dean White of Doane. His winning times was 16 minutes, 5 and six-tenths seconds.

Leading the Indians were Dennis Dunning, Jesse Henderson and Nick Dixon. Dunning finished third overall with a time of 18 minutes and 19 seconds.

The meet was run over a three mile course.

OU Second

On October 22, the OU team participated in a triangular with Dana and Emporia as the opponents. Emporia finished first and the Indians were second.

The Hornets had a total of 15 points against them while OU had 41 and Dana, 57.

Dennis Matheson of Emporia finished first and Dunning once again led OU. His time was only a minute and a half over that of the winner, yet he could only manage a sixth place finish. Gene Somer also ran well for Omaha.

Morningside Defeated

An unscheduled meet was held with Morningside October 27. Morningside wanted another meet under its belt before the conference meet and OU obliged by whipping the Maroons, 11-26.

The Indians took first, second, third and fifth places. Dunning placed first, Dixon, second and Somer, third.

This meet was run over a four mile course.

Team Fast

Coach Ernie Gorr says that as a group this year's runners are covering three and four mile distances faster than ever before. He says that there have been faster individuals but never a faster team.

Events in the future are the Midwest AAU championships tomorrow, and the conference and NAIA national championships.

Other Nebraska teams to be represented in the Midwest tomorrow are the University of Nebraska and Nebraska Wesleyan.

The CIC meet will be on Nov. 19 and the NAIA tourney is scheduled for Nov. 26.

Tall Newcomers Brighten Indian Basketball Picture

Ed Woodard and Roger Brown add height to Indians.

The University of Omaha basketball team has been practicing for a few weeks now and according to coach Clarence (Sonny) Means, "The squad is working hard and has good attitude."

"This attitude is bound to help us as the season progresses," said Coach Means.

The team has three returning lettermen and a crop of promising newcomers.

Lettermen include Gary Wentworth, Bruce Hunter and Joe Neuberger. Wentworth is a junior and the other two are sophomores.

There are 14 freshmen on the squad at the present time. The most promising are Ed Woodard, a 6 ft., 8 in. center from Ralston; Jerry Kamphius, 6 ft., 3 in., forward from South High; Wendell Wiksell, 6 ft., 1 in. guard, also from South; Dave Nagglund, 6 ft., 4 in. forward from Omaha North, and another North High product, Clyde Mattux, 6 ft. 5 in. forward.

Three players from last year's Junior Varsity team are also playing this year. They are 6 ft. 6 1/2 in. Roger Brown, and two guards, Bill Derra from Benson and Larry Turner, who played his prep ball at Red Oak, Ia.

Other freshmen on the squad include Allen Konecky, the shortest man on the team at 5 ft., 6 in.; Don Lehmann, Ray Kirk, William Boller and Dudley Kersey.

Guard Marv Bratka was in school two years ago but dropped out last year.

"This year we have improved height and we feel this is bound to be an asset." This new height is centered around 6' 8" freshman Ed Woodard.

Coach Means said, "The squad is working hard has a good attitude and is planning an improved record." The schedule this year will be one of the toughest and with a few exceptions all have exceptionally strong teams.

Drake University is new to OU's schedule this year and promises to be an interesting foe.

Coach Means also added that we will be stronger this year.

George Payne, Louie Miloni Strengthen Omaha Backfield

Payne and Miloni about to head for practice field.

George Payne and Louis (Louie) Miloni are a couple of veteran halfbacks on Coach Al Caniglia's grid squad. They are two of the three returning lettermen at the halfback positions, the other being Dean Taylor.

Payne earned two letters in football and three in swimming at Creighton Prep High.

Payne, through only a sophomore at 5 ft. 10 in. and 164 lbs., must be classified as a veteran. He saw considerable action as a freshman last year playing behind senior halfback John Molczyk.

Though possessed with fine speed, Payne has been used sparingly on offense this year. He has amassed a total of 99 yards on 11 carries in the first six games. In his only appearance as a ball carrier in the Fort Hays contest

Payne scored on a six-yard touchdown run.

As was the situation last year, Payne has been used predominantly on defense this year.

George also had the distinction of playing in the first annual Nebraska Shrine game held at Municipal Stadium in 1959.

The scooter of the Indian backfield and a big favorite with Indian fans is Louie Miloni.

Lou provides much of the outside running attack employed by the Indian grididers. He can also be called on to make the clutch play.

A Central High product, Miloni put in a brief stint at the University of Nebraska before coming to Omaha.

Not only a grid letterman, Louis doubles as a wrestler. He has earned two letters in wrestling.

Mentors, Fans Invited to See Former Star

Johnny Norlander, star of the basketball court and a member of the Converse Rubber Company staff of basketball specialists, is slated to give an exhibition on November 14 at the University of Omaha Fieldhouse at 8:30 under the joint sponsorship of Omaha and Creighton Universities.

A product of Hamline University, 6 foot 3 inch John Norlander has demonstrated his ability and versatility in college, semi-pro and professional basketball. A double-threat athlete, Norlander played four years of baseball as well as basketball at Hamline. For those four years, he was chosen on the Minnesota All-State conference five-and, in 1942, was named to the All-American basketball team. In his senior year, he was head baseball coach at Hamline.

Joining the Navy in 1943, Norlander set a new Maryland collegiate mark of 409 points at the Bainbridge Naval Training Station. He also saw service at the Norfolk NTS and the Naval Medical Center at Bethesda, Maryland. At the latter, he specialized in physical rehabilitation training for hospitalized veterans.

High Scorer

Called one of the best scoring men in basketball, Norlander turned professional after the war ended, joining the Baltimore Bullets (American Basketball League) in the spring of 1946. In the fall of 1946 he started a four-year playing career with the Washington Capitols in the National Basketball Association. While starring with the Caps, Johnny played in 289 consecutive games. A torn ligament ended his remarkable stint.

Fundamentals

Norlander, who knows basketball from all angles, is scheduled to attract a real crowd of basketball coaches, players and court fans when he puts on his show at the OU Fieldhouse. Norlander's demonstrations of the latest basketball techniques will be restricted to fundamentals and will not in any way trespass on the individual styles which local basketball coaches teach their squads.

In addition to his personal demonstration of basketball fundamentals, Norlander will show a special basketball sound film of the title games of the past season.

Public Invited

No admission of any kind is charged for the Norlander exhibition. Many coaches are planning on bringing their entire squads and coaches, players and fans are all invited.

A rules meeting of the Iowa-Nebraska Officials and Coaches Association will be held at 7:30 in the Student Center the same night.

Next year Creighton University will be host to the clinic.

Zeta Tau Alpha Pledges Recruit Helpers for Pledge Coketail

By Mary Beth Meyers

"Every successful function needs a clean-up committee. We need seven tidy girls to fill the post. Who will be the first to volunteer?"

Silence.

"This is a responsible position, girls. It really isn't anything to cleaning up after hundreds of pledges at our Zeta Tau Alpha pledge Coketail Party . . . really," reasoned the pledge's social chairman Nancy Norton. "Now, which one of you would like to share some responsibility?"

Silence!

"Hmm . . . the clean-up committee for the November 13 coketail will be Gail Browning, Melaine Jeub, Helen Hughes, Bev Merica, Sherri Payne, Dona Picking and Beth Runge. That's what I like to see—enthusiastic volunteers."

The Coketail Party is the biggest social event that the Zeta pledge class will undertake. Every pledge of the eight other fraternal groups on campus is invited. The deans, the sponsors, and President Milo Ball will also be guests at the affair.

shining our faces are on this nice crisp day of forty below.

He continues to list the merits of the day as I finally get settled in my seat and prepare to join the slumbering masses.

Then he decides to make an emphatic point. BANG! My humble slumber has been deeply disturbed before it has begun. He is pounding on the lectern.

Through half-closed eyes I see several people in front of me stir and settle back again, muttering unintelligible and unrepeatable oaths to themselves.

Apparently oblivious of the nuisance he is making of himself, my learned instructor rambles onward. He has apparently decided to refrain from making emphatic points any longer because my slumber has been uninterrupted for quite some time.

All of a sudden I am once again shocked into reality by a bell announcing something or other. From careful observation I have noticed that the bell system is apparently designed for just rousing class sleepers. It never seems to ring at the beginning or end of a class period, but it always does in the middle.

Once again, through half-closed eyes, I see several people stir and settle back again, muttering unintelligible and unrepeatable oaths, this time directed toward that infernal ringing monster.

Finally the awaited hour approaches. By instinct at the designated hour of 8:20 the class awakens and prepares to leave.

But somehow, amid the slamming of books and rustling of seats, the instructor has lost sight of the time. He is completely absorbed in the subject he is talking about and seems to ramble on forever.

Finally he notices the entire class is standing and realizes it is time to go so he makes several more time consuming points, declaring that "I just want to make one more statement."

At last the desired words come and the class bolts through the door and makes a beeline for the cafeteria and another day of coffee, cards, and coeds.
